Dear Counsel:

Your firm currently represents one or more plaintiffs in litigation against Madison Square Garden Entertainment Corp. or one or more of its affiliates or subsidiaries (collectively, the “Company”). Because of the adversarial nature inherent in litigation proceedings, and because of the potential for contact with the Company’s employees and disclosure outside proper litigation discovery channels that could result from the presence of any of your firm’s lawyers at the Company’s venues, neither you, nor any other attorney employed at your firm, may enter the Company’s venues until final resolution of the litigation. As you are no doubt aware, contact with the Company’s employees is prohibited by New York Rule of Professional Conduct 4.2, and neither you nor any attorney employed at your firm may contact any of our employees, with the exception of attorneys employed in the Company’s legal department.

To be clear, you and the other attorneys at your firm, may not enter Madison Square Garden, Hulu Theater at Madison Square Garden, Beacon Theatre, Radio City Music Hall or The Chicago Theatre (collectively, the “MSG Venues”) until the subject litigation has been resolved. Should you attempt to enter or otherwise obtain access to any of the MSG Venues, the Company will take appropriate steps to enforce this notice. We trust that will not be necessary and that you and your colleagues will respect this notice.

Sincerely,

Hal Weidenfeld
