19 Comments: FRAP 26(a)(4) defines the end of the last day of filing in the court of 20 appeals as “midnight in the time zone of the circuit clerk’s principal office” for electronic 21 filing and “when the Clerk’s office is scheduled to close” for other means of transmission 22 of documents to the clerk’s office. This rule applies “[u]nless a different time is set by 23 statute, local rule, or court order.” L.A.R. 26.1 relies upon this authority to create a 24 uniform end of the last day for filing irrespective of the means of transmission.
