Big Tech has enjoyed years of unfettered growth, but now the U.S., EU, China and India have launched unprecedented crackdowns on some of the biggest names in the business. Lawmakers and regulators are going after anti-competitive practices and looking at privacy and security at companies such as Facebook and Apple, Google and Amazon. Reuters journalists across the globe are keeping clients and readers ahead on this huge story, delivering exclusive news and insight, and, in some cases, even spurring action by lawmakers and corporations.
